The White House press corps laughed and praised US President Joe Biden, after he joked about running over a reporter who asked a question about the Israeli-Palestinian conflict as he tested an electric Ford pick-up truck.

Video from a Ford testing site in Dearborn, Michigan, shows Biden driving the F-150 Lightning truck model on a test runway, with the White House correspondents throwing him softball questions and laughing along – Biden says he was asked a question about Israel before he

The press gathered at the testing site for an “unscheduled stop,” and White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki wouldn’t say if Biden would be the test-driver.

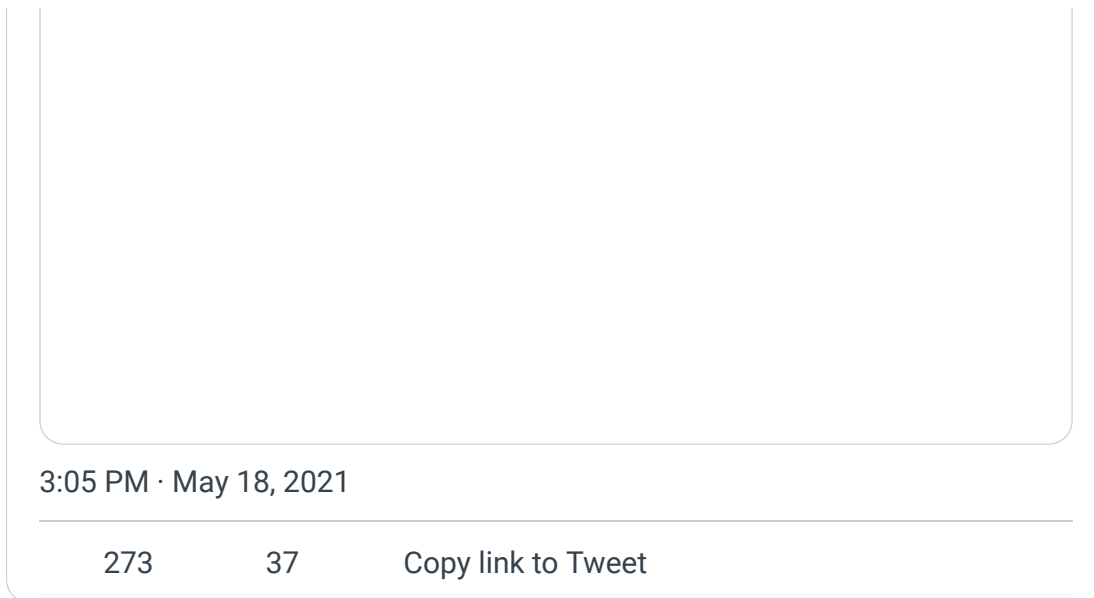

Among the questions he was asked upon driving up were “Would you buy one of these?” and “How does it feel behind the wheel?”

Biden joking about running down a reporter for asking about Israel in an F-150 truck is a pretty good tell about just how performative the "how dare he" fainting spells of the past 4 years actually were.

The president was visiting Michigan on Tuesday to announce an ambitious push for switching the US auto industry – which has fallen on hard times in recent decades – over to electric cars.

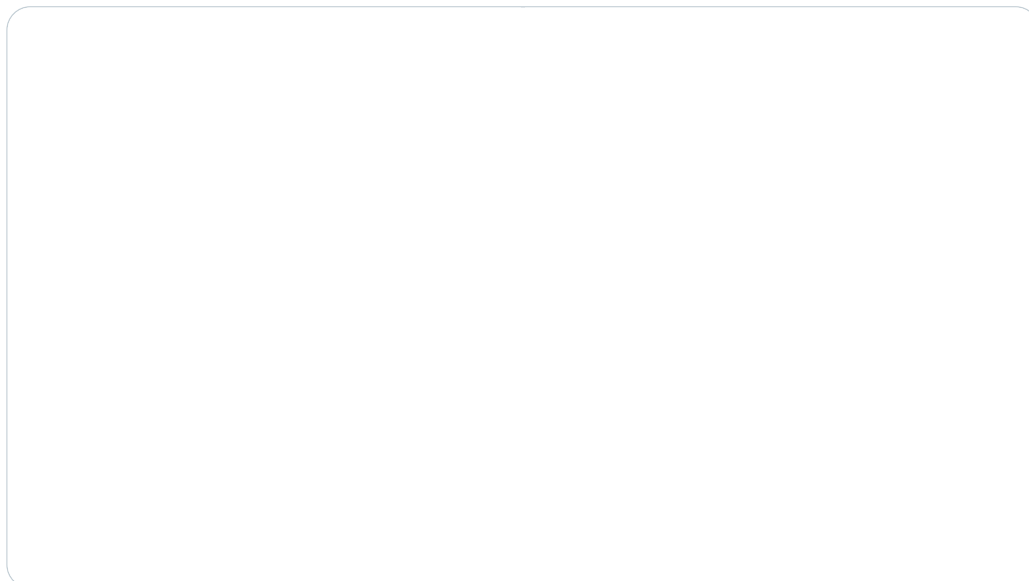

"The future of the auto industry is electric. There's no turning back," Biden said at the Ford plant in Dearborn.
