

Islamic State threatens two Japanese captives in video

BY LUKE BAKER

JERUSALEM | Tue Jan 20, 2015 9:31am EST

Tweet Share 22 Share this 8+1 14 Email Print

A masked person holding a knife speaks as he stands in between two kneeling men in this still image taken from an online video released by the militant Islamic State group on January 20, 2015.

CREDIT: REUTERS/SOCIAL MEDIA WEBSITE VIA REUTERS TV

RELATED VIDEO

Islamic State threatens two Japanese captives in video

RELATED NEWS

Japan PM Abe: threat to Japanese captives 'unacceptable'

Japan foreign ministry: no comment on purported Islamic State ransom demand

Japan cabinet ministers to meet over captives issue: NHK

Japan chief government spokesman: No change in stance of not giving into terrorism

(Reuters) - The militant group Islamic State released an online video on Tuesday purporting to show two Japanese captives and threatening to kill them unless it received $200 million in ransom.

A black-clad figure with a knife, standing in a barren landscape along with two kneeling men wearing orange clothing, said the Japanese public had 72 hours to pressure their government to stop its "foolish" support for the U.S.-led coalition waging a military campaign against Islamic State.

"To the prime minister of Japan: Although you are more than 8,500 km away from the Islamic State, you willingly have volunteered to take part in this crusade," said the militant, who spoke in English.

He demanded "200 million" without specifying a currency, but an Arabic subtitle identified it as U.S. dollars.

The footage named the men as Haruna Yukawa and Kenji Goto.

The video was not dated, but on a visit to Cairo on Jan. 17,

DAVOS

Year of disasters sinks trust in business and governments

DAVOS, Switzerland - A year of disasters and mismanagement that included mystery air crashes, data hacks, foreign exchange rate rigging and the worst ever Ebola outbreak has torpedoed global trust in public bodies and business, according to a survey on Tuesday.

IMF cuts global growth outlook, calls for accommodative policy | VIDEO

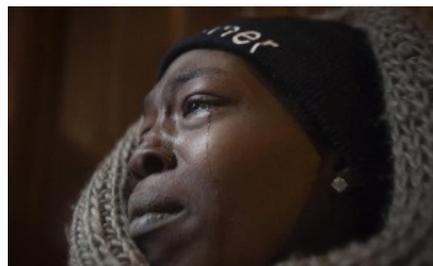

ILO chief laments failure to tackle inequality at Davos

» More from Davos

TRENDING ON REUTERS

- Islamic State threatens two Japanese captives in video | VIDEO 1
- Pope says birth control ban doesn't mean breed 'like rabbits' 2
- China's 2014 economic growth misses target, hits 24-year low | VIDEO 3
- Militias attack Yemen president's private home: minister 4
- Special Report: For Islamic State, wheat season sows seeds of discontent 5

PICTURES OF THE DAY

assistance for countries battling Islamic State.

Fleeing Boko Haram

Back to top

Our best photos of 2014

radicalizing Muslim world
Reuters.com

Austria mulls quitting Saudi-
Made from 8000 religious centre in Vienna

Support & Contact

RELATED TOPICS on

World

Connect with Reuters

Japan »

About

Abe, speaking in Jerusalem on Tuesday near the end of a six-day tour of the Middle East, said Islamic State's threat against the two reported captives was "unacceptable"

Extremism and Islam are completely different things," Abe said.

We strongly demand the immediate release of the Japanese citizens unharmed. The international community needs to respond firmly and cooperate without caving into terrorism."

Privacy Policy | Terms of Use | Advertise With Us | AdChoices | Copyright

Site Index

Follow Reuters

Facebook Twitter RSS YouTube

RECOMMENDED VIDEO

Security issues set to top Davos agenda
Thomson Reuters is the world's leading source of intelligent information for businesses and professionals.

Iraq says aircraft hit IS targets west of Baghd...

Islamic State threatens to release captive...

About Thomson Reuters
Son of late Hezbollah leader among 6 killed ...

Investor Relations

Careers

Financial Content

See if you're on track with your retirement

5 reasons to hone in on high yield

Hang Kong - Shanghai bourses creates world's 3-largest stock exchange

Forget The iPhone 6. Next Hit Apple Product Leaked (see picture)

5 Credit Cards with No Interest to Help You Get out of Debt

The video resembled others distributed by Islamic State outlets in which captives were threatened or killed. It appeared to be the first time that an Islamic State video specifically demanded cash for captives.

TOKYO

Asked whether Japan would pay ransom to secure the captives' release, Abe replied: "With regard to this case, we attach the utmost priority to saving lives, and gathering information with the help of other countries."

In Tokyo, Japan's foreign ministry said it was checking the authenticity of the video. In televised remarks, Parliamentary Senior Vice-Minister of Defense Akira Sato told reporters that, after viewing the footage, he thought it might be a "composite".

Goto is a freelance reporter who was based in Tokyo. He has written books on AIDS and children in war zones from Afghanistan to Africa and reported for news broadcasters in Japan.

Goto met Yukawa last year and helped him travel to Iraq in June, he told Reuters in August.

Yukawa, 43, traveled to Iraq and Syria last year after telling friends and family that he thought it represented a last chance to turn his life around.

Over the previous decade, he had lost a business to bankruptcy, lost his wife to cancer and become homeless, according to his father and an online journal.

It was not clear what exactly he was doing in the region. Yukawa's father, Shoichi Yukawa, declined to comment, saying he was overwhelmed by the news reports.

The militant in the footage, who spoke with a British accent, appeared to have the same voice as a jihadist shown with captives in previous Islamic State videos.

Similar videos have shown captives beheaded, including Western aid workers and journalists.

The hardline Islamist group, which holds territory in Syria and Iraq, has also killed more

Our Flagship financial information platform incorporating Reuters Insider

An ultra-low latency infrastructure for electronic trading and data distribution

A connected approach to governance, risk and compliance

Our next generation legal research platform

Our global tax workstation

Investor Relations

Careers

Financial Content

See if you're on track with your retirement

5 reasons to hone in on high yield

Hang Kong - Shanghai bourses creates world's 3-largest stock exchange

Forget The iPhone 6. Next Hit Apple Product Leaked (see picture)

5 Credit Cards with No Interest to Help You Get out of Debt

according to a monitoring group.

(Reporting by Luke Baker in Jerusalem, William Maclean in Dubai, Sylvia Westall in Beirut and Linda Sieg, Tepei Kasai and Tetsushi Kajimoto in Tokyo; Editing by Mike Collett-White)

FILED UNDER: WORLD JAPAN

Recommend 744 people recommend this. Sign Up to see what your friends recommend.

Tweet this Link this Share this Digg this Email Print Reprints

Sponsored Financial Content (?)

- Forget The iPhone 6. Next Hit Apple Product Leaked \(see picture\) Motley Fool
- Estimate how much you'll need for retirement with My Retirement Plan® Wells Fargo
- How rising rates could impact 3 key sectors J.P. Morgan Funds
- Hong Kong - Shanghai bourses creates world's 3-largest stock exchange HKTDC
- 5 Credit Cards with No Interest to Help You Get out of Debt Next Advisor

Sponsored Topics

1. Best Cars to Own
2. Top 10 Best Vacuum Cleaners
3. How to Start an Online Business
4. How Start a Business From Scratch
5. 10 Home Business Ideas
6. Cheap Cellphone Plans
7. Best Refrigerator 2014
8. Best Home Based Business
9. Best Rated SUVs
10. High Speed Internet Offers